Fukien Secondary School (Siu Sai Wan)
Lesson Plan by LEUNG PIK KEI

Date: 15th April, 2011

Class: 2D (25 students)

Duration: 40 minutes (The third lesson)

Background of students: Students of an average English standard from a CMI school

Prior knowledge: The students have not written any short stories before. However, they went through the 11 features required in a short story the day before.

Objectives: By the end of the lesson, students will be able to

- (1) answer the questions related to the main gist of a news article modified from 6th April, 2011, South China Morning Post,
- (2) name and include the 11 features required in a short story, and
- (3) incorporate adjectives to show feelings, actions and conversations to make the short story interesting.

Teaching and learning materials: 2 YouTube video links, a news article, and a 10-slide PowerPoint file

Teaching rationales: (1) Individual differences are attended to by having lessons in groups. Students are assigned to groups of four according to their English results. Seats are swapped every cycle in order for students to take turns to sit nearer the teacher. Also, each group is composed of students with high, average and poor English levels so that they can help each other. Those who are not confident enough can rehearse in their own group before sharing with the whole class. Peer learning is a key element in the lesson.

- (2) Students can practise the four skills, listening, reading, writing and speaking, in a task-based learning lesson.
- (3) Reading aloud is evident to improve students' English.
- (4) Apart from English ability, the lesson aims at enhancing students' generic skills, including logical thinking, critical thinking, creativity, communication, collaboration, self-management, and study skills throughout the lesson.

1. Tsunami dog saved after 3 weeks at sea

2. updated on April 06, 2011

3. The Japanese coast guard saved a pet dog that somehow survived three weeks at sea after being washed away in the March 11 disaster.
5. On Friday, a helicopter first saw the dog on the roof of a house floating off the coast of Kesennumna, but the animal was scared. So, it hid under the roof.
7. Finally, the dog was saved by a coast guard boat because the helicopter ran low of fuel. The coast guards fed and hugged the dog afterwards.
9. Seeing that the dog was the family's missing pet on TV, the owner found her in 10. the animal shelter on Monday.
11. "I saw the rescue on the news, and knew it was her. I knew her right away, from 12. her face," the woman, whose full name was not given, told NHK public 13. television. Two-year-old Ban jumped into the arms of her owner when they are 14. reunited. "I am happy that she seems healthy. I want to cherish her more when 15. I take her back," she added, as Ban licked her face happily.
