What is Five Senses Writing (五感描寫法) ?

When we write a description, we should describe things in detail. To help you do this, for each of the things we describe, we can use our Five Senses.

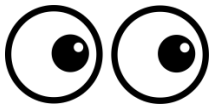

Readers will find your description more interesting if they can imagine and picture what you are describing. With more detailed description, it makes your readers feel as though he or she is there, too.

Our visit to Kwun Tong.....

While you are walking the site, use your five senses to record whatever you can observe below. Please write down at least five of your observations for each sense.

Section: _____

Observation time: _____

What have you seen? (colour, shape, size, appearance)	What have you heard? (origin of the sound, volume high or low)	What have you smelt? (bad smell, disgusting, smell good, etc.)	What have you touched?	What have you tasted? (sweet, salty, spicy, etc.)
1. 2. 3.	1. 2. 3.	1. 2. 3.	1. 2. 3.	1. 2. 3. How do you spend $20? What have you bought?
What do you feel?	What do you feel?	What do you feel?	What do you feel?	What do you feel?
